What will we...Grow & Let Go?

Instructions: Grow & Let Go

Introduction:

We do so many things in our schools but sometimes we need to pause and consider what these things are and if they are still serving us as perhaps originally intended.

We also note the megatrends shaping our future and the global change forces impacting our schools as described in the DOBCEL Strategy 2035 Exec summary.

Individually: Think about teaching and learning and how our schools are organised today. Reflect on these thoughts and the emerging futures as you see it — global forces. Consider which practices we might need to grow in the future—and which we might consider letting go.

In groups:

Discuss the following questions in relation to your school and record your group's responses.

Display:

Display response for a gallery walk and to invite further consideration and discussion.

Collection & analysis:

Collect responses for analysis –

Are there trends and shared responses?

How might these new insights inform our work?

Share findings.

Grow & Let Go

Grow These

What practices should we invest more time, energy, and attention in education?

Let These Go

What current practices may no longer serve our students well, and could be reduced or phased out?
